

Wayne Gilchrest: One of the Chesapeake Bay's Best Friends

LOOK AT THE RECORD, JUDGE FOR YOURSELF

Congressman Wayne Gilchrest understands that when you protect the marine environment, you protect the economy – especially here in Maryland's First District, where our quality of life is so dependent on a having a clean, healthy and productive Chesapeake Bay. Our local fishing, tourism, boating, and real estate industries all rely on clean water and healthy oceans, and standing up for the environment just makes good economic sense.

Congressman Gilchrest has sponsored an amendment to protect land along the Chesapeake from development, supported a federal program to restore oysters in the Bay, secured additional funding for farm conservation on the Eastern Shore to reduce agricultural runoff into the Bay and sponsored numerous legislative efforts to protect and restore ocean fisheries.

And as Chairman of the House Resources Subcommittee on Fisheries Conservation, Wildlife and Oceans and member of the House Oceans Caucus, he has also supported efforts to restore estuary habitat and to improve the conservation and management of our coastal and ocean resources.

When it comes to protecting the Chesapeake Bay and our quality of life, no one compares to our Congressman, Wayne Gilchrest.
