

A REPUBLICAN AND DEMOCRAT AGREE:

We Must Protect South Carolina's Coast

Republican Governor Mark Sanford and Robert Barber, Democratic candidate for Lt. Governor both agree — the need to protect South Carolina's coasts must trump the drive to drill off our shores.

South Carolina's 185 miles of coastline generates billions of dollars in tourist revenue and creates thousands of jobs. Our barrier islands, salt marshes, and coastal ocean are home to shrimp, oysters, fish and other marine life. And for 25 years, our beautiful beaches have been protected from the threat of a devastating oil spill by a federal moratorium on offshore oil drilling. But recently there have been efforts to end the ban — a move both Sanford and Barber oppose.
